WHAT WE DO

Solar guidance. Flexible installation partnerships.

Solar Info America primarily focuses on solar sales, customer education, opportunity development, and coordinating the next steps with installation companies serving markets across the United States.

Residential solar

Explore rooftop solar options, preliminary savings, financing considerations, and the property evaluation process.

Commercial solar

Assess electricity usage, property feasibility, project economics, and solutions relevant to business operations.

Community solar

Where available, help eligible customers explore programs that may provide utility-bill credits without rooftop panels.

Energy analysis

Start online with electric-bill information and a preliminary assessment; confirm details before any final proposal.

OUR ROLE

We help customers understand options and connect with appropriate providers. Installation, engineering, permitting, interconnection, and post-installation responsibilities are performed by the selected provider under its applicable agreement.

THE CUSTOMER JOURNEY

A clear path from interest to installation

The initial analysis is convenient and does not require an in-home sales visit. Physical site work becomes relevant if a customer elects to pursue installation.

01

Share your energy needs

Tell us about your property and provide a recent utility bill.

02

Review preliminary options

Explore an initial analysis of potential solutions, costs, and qualifications.

03

Confirm your eligibility

Review provider, financing, and utility requirements, if applicable.

04

Complete a professional site survey

In most rooftop projects, a survey is needed to assess roof, shading, electrical infrastructure, and feasible production.

05

Proceed with a partner

If you choose to move ahead, the selected installation company manages its contracted project scope and requirements.

WHY CHOOSE US

Built for informed decisions

An approach focused on clarity, choice, and practical next steps rather than one-size-fits-all sales promises.

Customer-first education

Understand how solar works, key tradeoffs, and what affects the economics before choosing an option.

A flexible partner network

We work with installation providers in different markets. Providers can change based on location, qualifications, capacity, and project requirements.

Clear role boundaries

We support solar sales and coordination. Installation providers are responsible for the work specified in their contracts.

No guarantees without verification

Savings, incentives, financing, timelines, and eligibility depend on individual circumstances and should be confirmed in writing.
